

Learn Liaison Report

4/14/15

The Sunday School kids did great with singing to the congregation on Palm Sunday! It was a very challenging song, but they all did extremely well.

Thanks to all who helped fill, hide and oversee the Easter Egg hunt. The young kids (and parents) really enjoyed it.

The older kids will be planning a bake sale May 9 to help fund their trip to Detroit. They will also be selling flowers. The items will be for sale between services. Cindy and Allyson can be reached for donation questions.

The youth attended the Youth Encounter Zone in Virginia Beach in March. They attended workshops and small group sessions to learn more on how they can be examples of the Word.

A new learning opportunity! The small groups will be starting this week. Really excited to see what will come of this experience for me personally and for the other participants.

In the adult area of Learn, there are two classes going through the beginning of May.

Track 1 – Studying the book of James using Ausburg Fortress' Book of Faith program.

Track 2 – Does the Church Matter? How can we make a better impact etc?

We'll be working on when we can fit in another Cross + Generation Event with the church calendar.

After attending the leadership meeting and hearing the concerns and changing needs of families, I really want to explore a mid week family faith formation gathering during the summer. It's not laid out formally and we're still in discussions on how it would work: i.e. Space available, structure, leadership, goals and how to get people interested. Some youth parents and leaders have had brief conversations about it and we'll be exploring further and picking brains soon to make it happen. Since there is no Sunday School during the summer, we will consider it starting then, but after the small group events. I'm open to any thoughts, comments and concerns on this topic.
